Having been voted one of the world's top five Technology Futurists, it should come as no surprise that Jack Shaw was one of the first professional speakers to deliver virtual programs. In fact, Jack has been giving virtual programs for nearly 20 years.

Jack has presented numerous virtual programs and is very comfortable with the process and the platforms. He'll brainstorm with you to customize a program for your audience's needs. Jack's deep technology background in AI, Blockchain, Internet of Things, 3D Printing, and eXtended Reality (XR, i.e., Virtual Reality and Augmented Reality, VR/AR) along with his global speaking experience and expertise in Change Management, Innovation, and Transformational Leadership make him highly qualified to present during these turbulent times.

Jack delivers much more than just an exciting, on-point program. He always will test his presentation on your virtual platform ahead of time so that you'll know it'll work flawlessly when you go live. If you haven't already chosen a platform, he can advise you on the best fit for your needs. Jack will gladly develop a professional promotional video for your event (See left and below). And, he'll work with you to promote it via his extensive social media networks.
